Pharmaceuticals, Packaging for Pharmaceuticals, Edible Inks Cabot Carbon Black Products

Pharmaceuticals and Edible Inks: Cabot Carbon Blacks are manufactured by the pyrolysis of heavy fuel oils and cannot be used in the manufacture of pharmaceuticals or edible inks.

Pharmaceutical Packaging: Carbon black is not mentioned on any of the positive lists of the European Pharmacopoeia Section 3.1, Materials used for Manufacture of Containers (Edition 4.2, 2000). Certain materials that are not on the positive lists can be used for the manufacture of pharmaceutical packaging but it is the responsibility of the manufacturer of the pharmaceutical packaging to perform the appropriate migration tests upon that packaging. This testing must be performed for each type of pharmaceutical packaging and for each pharmaceutical contained in that packaging.
